

RD Management lends a helping hand this holiday season

Whether it's volunteering with your workplace or donating to a cause you truly care about in your community, it is never too early—or too late—to give back this holiday season. At RD Management LLC, we value giving back to the regions we operate in; here at our corporate offices, it has become an annual tradition.

This year, RD Management participated in their 2nd annual Salvation Army's Angel Tree Program. This program enabled us to reach out to children in New York City who would, otherwise, not have a present this holiday season. Our giving efforts will make 35 children in the city very happy this coming Christmas morning.

Another volunteer initiative RD Management recently participated in was the Weekend Repack at the Bronx Food Distribution Warehouse benefiting the Food Bank for New York City. The experience was heartwarming for all of us and we were proud to support such a great cause.

The Bronx Food Distribution Warehouse in the Hunts Point neighborhood supplies 400,000 meals each day to locals in need by delivering food to kitchens throughout New York's five boroughs. At the Food Distribution Warehouse, RD Management volunteers sorted through 4,523 pounds of food and health supplies, packed boxes, and weighed the boxes before they were shipped to food pantries across New York City. Our efforts helped provide 500 meals to those in need.

Food Bank for New York City, the city's main hunger-relief organization, is a nonprofit that provides nearly 64 million free meals each year to New Yorkers in need. The Food Bank's mission is to end hunger by organizing food packages and providing support to help low-income New Yorkers overcome their circumstances and achieve independence. Visit the Food Bank's volunteer page to find out how your organization can get involved and give back this holiday season.
